

Five Key Things You Must Do To Be Effectively Recruited

January 25th, 2009 - by Top Select Volleyball Academy Recruiting Staff

Get Evaluated

Get Evaluated

Every student athlete needs an objective, third-party evaluation to determine "best fit" qualifications for various college programs. A knowledgeable third party helps set realistic expectations on programs, competition levels, academic fit and schools.

There are Over 1,700 Colleges that offer collegiate athletic opportunities, but it is almost impossible to get the right schools to contact you without an evaluation from an expert.

Build a Scouting Report

Scouting Report

The days of delivering paper résumés through the mail are over. Coaches now view websites that contain all the athletic and academic information needed to recruit a prospect. Coaches need to be able to see more athletes, more efficiently.

The Scouting Report allows college coaches to view all your necessary up to date athletic and academic information instantly.

Create a Video

Every student athlete needs a highlight and skills video to convey their athletic abilities to college coaches. These videos are now typically streamed online and sent through e-mail. The best videos are digitally enhanced, sequenced properly and have spot shadowing. The difference in a quality enhanced NCSA video and a simple homemade video can be a deal breaker.

Your video must focus on what college coaches want to see. Make them want to watch you!

Connect with Coaches

Recruit-Match

Student athletes need to understand that receiving a few letters from college coaches does not constitute serious recruitment. College coaches contact thousands of student athletes in order to have enough options to fill needs. Student athletes need to play the same game: market to a minimum of 100 college coaches, preferably, 200!

Top Select Volleyball Academy Recruiting Staff, will assist in communicating to the College Coaches who show interest in the student athlete. It's a numbers game. The more "right fit" schools and coaches you're contacting, the more likely you are to get recruited your schools of choice.

Follow UP

This is a TEAM effort; Parents, Student Athlete and Top Select Volleyball Academy Recruiting Staff. A consistent but not overbearing update of information, to the college coaches is necessary. Updated profile information, recent updates to High School and Club results (Won a High School State Championship) (Club wins major tournament)
